Are there many cases of fraud in installing photovoltaic panels

Overview

Demand for solar-powered home systems has increased rapidly in the last several years. Scams, schemes and straight-up fraud abound in the dark underbelly of an otherwise light-filled industry. Allegations include:

Unpermitted Work: Some companies may engage in installations without obtaining proper permits, putting homeowners at risk.

Non-Functional Systems: Consumers are discovering that. Solar panel fraud has become a growing concern in the United States, leaving many homeowners stuck with hidden fees, inflated energy bills, and contracts they never fully understood. The con starts with a fast-talking salesperson offering a "limited time. Social media is full of angry complaints about shady solar panel installers. "Well, everybody wants a cheaper electric bill, right?"

" said Emanuel Minto, a 91-year-old, who was locked into a misleading. Did a salesperson knock on your door and promise free rooftop solar panels at no cost to you?

Or say you'll never have to pay another electricity bill because government programs, grants, or rebates cover your solar installation?

It's likely a scam. While there are some government-funded solar.
