Can lockers be placed in the basement of the community

Overview

These storage spaces can be located in common areas, basements, garages, or separate storage buildings within the community. However, not all residential properties offer such facilities, and it's essential to check with the property management or inquire about it. We have a fairly large open room in our basement where washers and dryers are located along with all of the electrical boxes and main plumbing. They by-laws are clear that no items are to be stored any place but either in the designated storage area (i. storage lockers) or in our own condo units. There are enough lockers to accommodate each apartment, but due to some. Think about the shape your basement is in. Imagine having built-in cabinets and.
