Can the door of the office storage cabinet face east

Overview

The truth is that you're probably never going to look at your cabinet doors from the inside. Best direction to sit in the office: Face north or east for improved focus and productivity. He should face north while occupying a room in the southern side and should face east while occupying. Facing north east while working can enhance creativity and productivity, whereas facing south should be avoided as it can negatively impact focus and efficiency. For a business owner, following specific Vastu rules can significantly promote profitability and growth. The East direction is perfect for a service industry. The traditional Indian science of building construction and interior design known as Vastu Shastra places a special emphasis on cabinets and storage areas in general.
