Power outages niger

Overview

Niger Republic is grappling with worsening electricity shortages following Nigeria's decision to scale back its power exports by 42%, reducing supply from 80 megawatts to just 46MW. Despite hosting three hydroelectric power dams (Shiroro, Kainji and Jebba Hydroelectric power dams) and a fourth one under construction in Zungeru, ironically, Niger State still struggles to enjoy 12 hours of electricity daily, except for those connected to exclusive 33kV lines. The drastic cut has triggered widespread power outages, especially in the capital city, Niamey. The Niger State Electricity Regulatory Commission (NSERC) convened a formal hearing to address ongoing power outages affecting the Tudun Fulani and Maikunkele communities, responding to multiple.
